1. Towards the end of December 1948, one of the four electric turbines at the Bunawerk, Schkopau, broke down. The damage was such that the turbine can neither be repaired, because of lack of spare parts, nor replaced. As a result the remaining three turbines now have to operate without a turbine in reserve, and production from now on can be expected to become irregular. Even the three remaining turbines are not in first-class condition.

2. the following figures on production at this plant:

50X1-HUM

- a. Buna: November 1948 - 2,000 tons.
December 1948 - Probably 2,000 tons.
- b. Aviation lubricating oil: - 2,000 tons per annum.
- c. Solvents - Because of the lack of naphthyl amine, the production of phthalic acid and solvents ceased completely during December 1948.
- d. Acetic aldehyde - 1,200 tons (period not stated).
